

Germany Regrets Loss of American Lives on Arabic

AWAIT FINAL FACTS PLEA OF GERMANY

COUNTY VON BERNSTORFF DELIVERS MESSAGE FROM BERLIN ON ARABIC'S SINKING.

NO REPORT RECEIVED

German Admiralty Has As Yet Failed to Secure A Statement From Submarine Commander—New Word From Page.

New York, Aug. 24.—Ambassador Von Bernstorff today transmitted to the state department the contents of a message received from the Imperial German government in which it is stated. That if the sinking of the Arabic was due to the act of a German submarine commander, such act was contrary to the orders of the German admiralty.

The message further continues that the Imperial Government of Germany deeply regrets the loss of lives of Americans and extends its sincerest sympathy to the United States government.

This message was forwarded at once to Lansing at Washington.

Washington, August 24.—Germany, through her ambassador, Count Von Bernstorff, today asked the United States not to take a final stand on the sinking of the White Star liner Arabic, until all the facts were known. It was the first word from Germany since the disaster.

No Report at Berlin.

Count Von Bernstorff telegraphed the state department today saying he made the request at the instruction of his government, and added the German admiralty had not yet been able to get a report on the sinking.

The state department shortly after noon today received a telegram from Von Bernstorff, who is at his summer home at Cedarhurst, Long Island. It was not made public and officials declined to discuss it, but it was understood the ambassador asked the department to withhold judgment on the sinking of the Arabic until it had all the facts.

An overnight cablegram from Ambassador Page contained additional information concerning the sinking of the Arabic, but officials said the evidence so far collected was still fragmentary.

Though precise in its declaration that the Arabic was unarmed, that she did not attempt to escape, but she was not warned, and that she was sunk before she could be warned, the British admiralty statement, which probably will be accepted as evidence unless rebutted by German testimony, leaves unmentioned the possibility of a genuine misunderstanding before the German submarine commander of the Arabic's turn to port just before the fatal explosion.

Dr. Woods' last letter to his wife was mailed in London on August eighth. In it the doctor stated he was planning to return to the United States at once and would probably sail from Liverpool on the Arabic on Sunday, August eighteenth. Aside from the personal matters referred to in the letter the doctor stated he intended to visit one of the big English hospitals at Cambridge where five "surgical" wounds were being cared for before going to Liverpool, reaching that port the sixteenth to visit with friends there until his vessel sailed. He also referred to the terrible electrical storms that were sweeping over England and the unusual fact that many persons were being killed by lightning, which he referred to as a most unusual occurrence for England.

The letter was one of the shortest written by the doctor since he arrived in England, previous ones having been opened and censored evidently as they arrived in detached telegrams. It is this letter that the doctor made reference to the fact that he had received but two letters from Mrs. Woods during his stay in France and England.

On the day the Arabic sailed Mrs. Woods received a dispatch from the doctor stating merely the word "Arabic" to signify that was the vessel on which he had started for home. Later a cable message in which the doctor stated he was on the Arabic and that he had started on the ill-fated liner.

Mrs. Woods is prostrated with the news and lack of knowledge of the exact life of her husband and is in the care of a trained nurse and loving friends. All talk of the Arabic is kept from her and she waits anxiously for a second letter which the doctor referred to in his note of the eighth telling of his work in both France and England which evidently is coming by a later steamer.

There is no question but that Dr. Woods is an American citizen, in inquiry at the Clerk of the Court's office show that before sailing for Europe he obtained a certified copy of his papers, made out on December 23, 1896, and they were forwarded to Washington for his official passport which was issued by the state department for use while abroad, and is on record there.

LITTLE ROCK AGAIN FACES GAS FAMINE; HIGH WATER CAUSE

Supply Will Be Exhausted by Noon Wednesday—Other Cities Affected—Newport Cut Off By Flood.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 24.—Little Rock today faced its fourth gas famine this year as result of a break in the main at Red River, near Louisville, caused by the high water. Local officials announced that the supply of gas would be exhausted by noon tomorrow. This also affects Hot Springs, Pine Bluff and other Arkansas towns.

Newport today was cut off from the outside world by flood waters of White river, except for long distance telephone communication. Train service in and out of Newport was demoralized. The Iron Mountain main line and White River division are covered by water to the depth of from three to five feet. Although White river has risen little since last night, when it reached 33.8, reports from points above Newport indicate a further rise may be expected.

About 6,000 residents of Newport and vicinity are crowded into two local hotels, the court house, the Iron Mountain depot and a few homes which the water did not reach.

St. Louis, Aug. 24.—Two thousand residents of Valley Park, Missouri, who were made homeless last Sunday when the thirty-five foot rise of the Missouri river flooded the entire city with 10 to 15 feet of water, today faced a food and drinking water shortage which threatened to result disastrously.

Twenty-five truck loads of food were rushed to the flood refugees from the suburbs of St. Louis yesterday, but this was consumed before the night was over.

Formulate Relief Plans.

A committee of St. Louis business men will meet in the mayor's office today to plan speedy and permanent relief.

The flood waters receded six feet last night and then stopped, the high water of the Mississippi being unable to carry off the load of all its swollen tributaries. Parts which were still without light last night and today the factories have no hope of early re-employment of 1,000 homeless and unemployed men.

Galveston, Tex., Aug. 24.—The street railway and electric light services were expected today to resume operations before night. Weather conditions remain favorable for the work of clearing the streets and extending relief. There is an abundant supply of disinfectants which are being distributed gratis.

There has been no additions to the casualty lists either in this city or at other coast points.

New York, Aug. 24.—The hurricane which swept recently over the West Indies destroyed ninety per cent of the banana trees on the north side of the island of Jamaica, according to officers of the steamer Rollins, which arrived today. The steamer brought a large cargo of bananas which were lost from the trees felled by the hurricane.

HAITIENS STUBBORN IN PEACE INTERVIEW

Admiral Caperton Reports Conference With Rebel Chief Today With "Much Room for Peace Talk."

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Aug. 24.—An attempt to circumvent the trouble in northern Haiti, which has caused the navy department to order 300 more marines to southern waters was reported today by Admiral Caperton, who told of an interview he had with General Morenci, one of General Bobo's adherents, near Cape Haitien, where most of the revolutionists are gathered. The interview was without definite result, but left "room for further discussion," the admiral reports.

General Morenci told the admiral that virtually all the natives in the north were ready to support General Bobo and refused to recognize President-elect Dartiguenave. No open threats were made against the Americans, but General Morenci promised nothing beyond the assurance that the natives would be allowed to continue to come into the villages for marketing. Navy department officials made no comment, but it was announced the armored cruiser Tennessee would leave today for Philadelphia to pick up further equipment for marine artillery battalions and would be ready by Thursday or Friday to start with reinforcements for southern waters.

JURY FALLS TO FIND WHO DID HANGING

LEO FRANK HANGED BY "PARTIES UNKNOWN" SAYS VERDICT REACHED IN THREE MINUTES.

SAW SPEEDING AUTOS

Witnesses Tell of Cars Filled With Men, None of Whom They Were Able to Identify.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Marionetta, Ga., Aug. 24.—The coroner's jury inquiring into the lynching of Leo M. Frank, retired to consider its verdict without having any testimony concerning the identity of any persons connected with the affair. In three minutes the jury returned a verdict that Frank "came to his death at the hands of parties unknown."

When the time for the jury to assemble arrived, the coroner decided to transfer the inquest to the county court house to accommodate the large crowd on hand to hear the testimony. The jury was composed of six residents of Cobb county.

Dr. C. D. Elder, the first witness called to the stand, testified to viewing the body of Frank, while it was still hanging in the oak grove near the Gray cotton gin. Dr. Elder did not know who was representing him, but was told the body was that of Frank. He was not present when the body was cut down. When he arrived on the scene of the lynching, the body was still warm.

"Do you know any of the circumstances surrounding the hanging?" asked John T. Dorsey, representing the state.

"Absolutely nothing," replied the witness.

"You were among the first to reach the scene?"

"Yes, Frank was lynched and hung."

"How many people were present when you arrived?"

"Perhaps half a dozen."

"Do you know who they were?"

"Some of them I do not know."

"Please name them."

"As I came up, two men were running out of the woods. One of them was Joe Carter and the other was a man I could not identify. I saw a man named Frank, I also saw W. A. Sands."

"Was Frank dead?"

"Yes, sir. The death rigor had not set in, however."

"Body Unmutilated."

"Was there any mutilation of the body?"

"No, sir. The only mark I saw was the cut in the neck, that had been opened by the rope."

"W. J. Frey, owner of the place on which Frank was lynched and regarded as the star witness of the inquest, was sworn."

"Mr. Frey, did you know Leo M. Frank?"

"He was asked."

"Did you know him in Atlanta two days, but I did not know him."

"You were among the first to discover the body?"

"Yes, sir. When I got there with Guard Benson and Walter Gann, there wasn't anybody in the grove but Leo M. Frank."

"When did you first know anything about that morning?"

"I think it was about five o'clock. My brother telephoned me that the state prison farm had been broken into and Frank taken out."

"Did you do anything, but went on about my business at home. Walter Gann, traveling man from Georgia, was sitting at my place. I live on the main road, Mr. Gann and I were in the field about six-thirty or seven o'clock when three or four automobiles came whizzing by the place. There were about forty yards apart. How fast were they going?"

"Well, sir, they were going along pretty fast. I should say 25 or 30 miles an hour."

"Then what happened?"

"Well, having heard about the break at the prison farm it popped into my mind there was something doing in the way of Frank."

"Mr. Frey said the man he found out afterwards as Frank, was seated in the rear seat of one of the passing cars with a man on either side of him. How was Frank dressed?"

"Looked as if he had on a thin shirt of some sort. He was bareheaded."

"You know at the time this man was Frank?"

"I thought it was him but did not recognize him."

"Did you recognize any of the other parties in the car?"

"No, sir."

"Do you know who they were?"

"No, sir."

"Were they masked?"

"Nor sir, but they all wore goggles and their faces were covered with dust. I said 'Looks like joyriders to me.'"

"Could you tell who were in the machine?"

"No, sir. I couldn't tell whether they were negroes or white people."

Death Due to Strangulation.

Dr. W. M. Kemp, another physician, testified that Frank's death was due to strangulation. He knew nothing about the hanging. J. Bart Wing, a Cobb county commissioner, was the next witness. He also was among the first to reach the scene of lynching after the body was discovered.

"Do you know anything about the hanging?" he was asked.

"Nothing."

"Is there anything you would like to say to the jury?"

Wing hesitated a moment, then he said:

"Nothing except that that morning on the road I saw several automobiles going in the direction of Marionetta."

"What time was this?"

"Between six-thirty and seven o'clock."

"Where were you at the time?"

"I had been fishing with Bob Cochran, a neighbor. We were in a boggy

LEGISLATURE ENDS WORK OF SESSION AT TWO THIS AFTERNOON

More Than Six Hundred Laws Enacted—No Unusual Ceremony Marks Occasions.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Aug. 24.—The 1915 session of the Wisconsin legislature came to close shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon. With the exception of a few members who remained here to transact business there was nothing particular to mark the occasion. The legislature has been in session 224 days, compared with 215 days for two years ago. To date 608 laws passed at this session of the legislature have been published and there are still about twenty acts in the hands of the state printer.

Of the scores of proposals to amend the state constitution only one went through. This was a resolution to change the constitution so that a sheriff may succeed himself an unlimited number of times. The legislature has been marked for the consolidation bills and for the reduction of state appropriations. So that no institution will be crippled, an emergency appropriation bill was passed which gives the state officers the right to expend amounts above those allowed in the definite appropriations for each department. The cost of the legislature was upwards of $270,000, the definite cost of the session was $200,000. The cost of the printing bills has been $100,000. Aside from the printing expenses the salary of members of the legislature is an important item of expense.

The passing of this legislature also marks the passing of the important tasks heretofore imposed on the chief clerk of the assembly of calling the roll on bills. When the next legislature convenes an electric voting device will have been installed in the assembly chamber, arranged so that by electric buttons on the desks of the members the vote may be rapidly recorded. When this bill was under discussion Assemblyman Hambrecht predicted that it would be the agency for saving nearly two weeks' time of members.

RUSSIAN FINANCES IN SERIOUS SHAPE

Overseas Agency Reports Stormy Scene in Russian Council Indicating Grave State of Affairs.

Berlin, August 24.—The Vossische Zeitung publishes what purports to be the stenographic report of a secret meeting of the finance committee of the Russian imperial council at which the financial status of the empire was the outlook were compared. The Overseas news agency says today:

"Count Kokowzew drew an awkward picture of financial conditions. 'The Russian treasury is again in a strait. The last popular loan he declared realized only 400,000,000 rubles ($200,000,000, instead of a billion, the remainder figuring as an asset in state budget, shows a deficit of 500,000,000 rubles. He pointed out that the issue of paper money would lead to national bankruptcy.'

"Finance Minister Bark replied that a foreign loan was out of the question under present circumstances, as France and England would be unable to carry a Russian loan, being themselves in dire financial stress."

GERMAN ARMY GAINING

Capture Important Position to Southwest of Brest Litovsk, Says Official Statement.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Aug. 24.—Eugene Gilbert, the French aviator brought down five German aeroplanes before he was compelled by an accident to his motor, to land on Swiss territory last June. Since his escape from Switzerland and his arrival in Paris on Sunday night, he has been treated as a popular hero.

When first interned in Switzerland Gilbert gave his word not to attempt to escape. The enforced idleness preyed on his mind, however, and he took back his promise and seized the first opportunity to get away. With assistance of a friend who provided a disguise, he made his way to Lucherne and Geneva and then into France.

Berlin Remains Silent.

London, Aug. 24.—The latest details concerning the Riga naval battle have failed to clear up the situation. Petrograd advices make it appear certain that the Germans met with a severe reverse, although official Berlin reports remain silent concerning the Russian claims.

The Russians now state that an additional cruiser must be added to those already reported sunk or put out of action. Whether the German battle cruiser attached by a British submarine was sunk remains to be told, the official report from Petrograd having given no details beyond stating that she was torpedoed.

Except for the report of the marine ministry at Paris concerning the sinking of a German patrol boat off Ostend, which is admitted by Berlin, no official news has been received of the results of the allied bombardment of German positions on the Belgian coast.

Slavs Battle Stubbornly.

The Russian armies have not stopped their Austro-German advance, although they are compelling the central powers to fight for every step won. Severe encounters continue before Brest-Litovsk, but the Baltic campaign is making headway. The German campaign is marked by a decisive stroke there by Field Marshal von Hindenburg has been long expected.

The western front, with the exception of an Indian campaign which is in progress for the French some German trenches in the Vosges, the warfare is marked by comparatively ineffectual artillery, bomb and mine combats.

Hitting the Spot

"We advertise in newspapers because they hit the spot we want to reach," says a large manufacturer of chewing gum.

This particular spot was a large consumer demand that would retailers and call for his product by name.

His sales have multiplied over and over again and his brand is an intimate household word.

What newspaper advertising has done for this manufacturer it will do for any other manufacturer with a good product.

It will not only "hit the spot" of consumer demand but it will also directly influence dealers in that product.

GOLFERS OF NATION WAIT FOR "TOURNEY" FOR TITLE HOLDERS

Question Who Will be the New Champion—Three Star Champions are Rivals for Honors.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Detroit, Mich., Aug. 24.—"Will the new golf champion be Evans, Ouimet, or Travers—or will he be someone else?"

These three stars, each of whom is a champion, have been picked from a brilliant field by majority of American enthusiasts, to furnish the winner of the Twenty-first National Amateur Golf Championship Tournament, to be held here from August 26 to September 4.

More than 150 contestants are expected to compete in the qualifying round, August 28, on the Detroit County Club course. Harry Vardon, the famous English golfer, who shot a game on these grounds two years ago, pronounced the course the finest he had seen in America. Other noted students of the Scotch pastime have declared that no course in the country demands more skill from star performers in championship competition. Since the links were complete in June, 1912, no one has turned in a score better than 72.

So far as known the great players from the East, middle West, South and Pacific Coast, who are entered in the national struggle, are mostly of the opinion that no championship possibility will be greatly favored or seriously handicapped by the requirements of the course. On the other hand it is probably their unanimous view that the "two shot" star will be left hopelessly behind before the preliminary rounds of medal play have been completed.

Nearly all of the amateurs who completed in the championship rounds in the 1914 tournament are entered. Chicago will have more than a dozen players of national importance, in addition to the Western Champion, "Chick" Evans, Jack Neville, the Pacific coast's hope and Nelson Whitney, of New Orleans, often referred to as "The peer of Dixie players," sent their entries in early. Through the efforts of the United States Golf association, the field is certain to be remarkably strong for the qualifying rounds. After Monday, the tournament is expected to resolve itself into a battle of giants.

Golf experts, who for months have been writing of the tournament, have delighted in again referring to the contest as a struggle between the East and West with about ten top-notchers on each side. Their articles, however, seemingly have been incomplete without reference to the open champion, Francis Ouimet and Charles Evans, Jr., lone Westerner of the trio, who for the past two seasons has been invincible in the Western amateur tournaments. These three players it has been computed, have won 28 golf titles during the past eight years. These honors do not include foreign or scholastic victories. Travers has been the most successful. He has been winner of the final match in 14 championships of distinct importance.

The fact that Travers and Ouimet have not played much golf in the West and Evans has been unsuccessful in his big matches in the East.

Otis Crandall.

Otis Crandall, former Giant now with the St. Louis Browns, has invented a new delivery known as the "snake ball." According to the reports of opposing batsmen, the sphere floats up to the plate in a series of eccentric circles that give hickory swingers the staggers trying to follow its course.

has caused enthusiasts to study the peculiarities of the Detroit course with unusual care. The grounds were designed and built by an Englishman and are, perhaps, more representative of British links and the more difficult of Eastern courses, than of those nearer the Mississippi river.

Although the country is practically flat, the designer produced an endless variety of hazards, diagonal cross-bunkers, illusive traps and imposing mounds. Nearly all of the greens are banked and are large, giving deeply putters an opportunity for spectacular effort.

Former Featherweight Champion in Bare Knuckle Days, Now Successful Commercial Traveler.

Charles J. "Kid" Donnelley, the undaunted champion of the featherweight division in the good old bare knuckle days when John L. Sullivan was king-ju of the giants, paid Janesville a short visit yesterday as a commercial traveler. And what more Donnelley is selling what one would not expect, a liquid that comes under all the rules and regulations of the most rigid prohibition laws. Donnelley, a native of Boston, has many friends in this city and in the course of events talked "shop" of the past and present days of the prize ring.

"Kid" Donnelley was the first fighter to ever adopt the "monicker" of "Kid," which now about every knight of the prize ring who can raise a dumbbell adopts with reckless abandon. But one thing about the ending of the little fellow is that he did not follow the path of McGovern and Dixon, terrors of their days in the light ranks. Today, Donnelley looks like a seasoned veteran of the road and has more of the appearance of having come out from behind the cashier's cage in a bank than, having ever crawled out from between the ropes after being battered down by an opponent with his bare fists in past years.

This example certainly belies the theory that once a "pug" always a pug, unless questioned about boxing. Donnelley never alludes to the ring game.

But the sport calls him even now for the "Kid" is taking an interest in Freddie Enoch, coming featherweight at Aurora, Illinois, and who is coming to Janesville to put the youngster through a few steps that made him famous in the "ancients." Donnelley's protegee matched to more famous Charles, and although Enoch is a featherweight and White a lightweight, Donnelley predicts a victory for the Aurora boy.

"I always remember Janesville because of an incident here that always makes me laugh no matter if it has rained for a week. Back in the early days when they were holding bouts at the Eagle's hall, Jimmy Clarke of Beloit had what he thought was a likely battler and when I visited Beloit, they wanted me to second the lad in a mill at Janesville. I went there and saw the lad in his room and of course he did not know who I was. When he got dressed and the preliminary boxing was over, the crowd, the fights and skipping about the dressing room, made a swing at me and ventured an opinion that I would not last two rounds with him, feeling as I did. He persisted and wanted to try me out and in fooling with him, he banged a right swing on my jaw when I thought he was only kidding. That raised my temper and although I had been out of the game for years, the real fight of the evening was in the dressing room, with no spectators or referee. There were two punches, one on the nose and the other on the chin, and the lad was out. I decided that boxing was no profession for him and that following the blow was far safer. He even refused to go on and a substitute put up such a fight showing that the lad was stopped. But the fans never knew about the inside battle."

Donnelley, the records show, retired in the year 1900 after his famous feat registered against him during his long career. "Sure, that's right," said the "Kid" with a smile, "and therefore I am champ featherweight right now. At that time I could make a few of these present day tango dancers step fast even if my hair is turning grey."

In these days of no decision short bouts, boxing is nothing else, for the fighting of the game has been eliminated, possibly for the betterment of the sport, said the "Kid." "In the olden days, when I fought until one dropped, with bare fists, you would have been knocked clear over the ropes if you ever tried that dancing stuff that the present champs delight in. It was the man who could hit and take punishment without flinching that got to the top and the weak hearted never started in the game. But those days are gone and the sport has become a waxed warm on his subject, once beguiled into talking boxing."

"One thing about boxing that keeps it above all other sports in many respects is that it is a clean, clean living and without a boxer escapes the taint he will never be successful or last. It helped me and clean living is just as necessary as natural ability to box," said the former king.

WATCH THOSE SOX IN COMING SERIES

Play Washington White, Detroit and Boston, Two Leaders, Battle for Lead.—Cubs Break Even Monday.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Washington today for the climbing and fighting White Sox, and Butcher Boy Joe Benz will probably draw the slugging job against the Senators. Yesterday the Sox held even with the Boston Red Sox, who whitewashed St. Louis 7 to 0 and gained a half a game on the spreading Tigers, who were idle.

Joe Jackson, the thirty thousand dollar infielder obtained by the Sox, made good in the hearts of the South Side fans while he tripled in the eleventh inning, giving the Sox a tight victory over New York by the score of 4 to 3. In the early parts of the important combat the Sox failed to make good opportunities to score and the ninth saw the tie bringing the game into extra innings. With Scott on the slab the Yanks had a hard problem of scoring while the Sox were trying to hold. In the eleventh Eddie Collins walked and Jackson brought tons of joy to the fans by whaling a liner to the fence, scoring the second sacker. Boston has won four straight and day opens at Detroit. If the Sox can hold their winning pace over Washington they should be closer to the lead as either Detroit or Boston is bound to drop in the percentage.

Cubs Break Even. Philadelphia, Aug. 24.—The leading Phillies and the fourth place Cubs played a double header, yesterday and the Cubs took the first game, 4 to 3 and dropped the second 13 to 3. The Cubs won the first game on a homer by Fred Goetz in the ninth inning. Larry Cheney and Meyer were the pitchers in the first game and Cheney was ousted in the eighth for Zabel, who gets credit for winning since the game was won in the ninth.

The second game was really ended before the second inning was over because in that inning the Phillies had a double header. Bert Humphries was the victim of the bombardment and gave way to Zabel. The latter could not check the angered Philistines and was pounded unmercifully.

MORRIS MILLER

Coach Fielding H. Yost has a list of some fifty big, strapping youngsters in line for this year's football team—but whether there are eleven football players in the bunch is a serious question. Probably never in the history of the famous coach's activities at Ann Arbor has he had more unsatisfactory knowledge of the material at hand than he has for his 1915 machine.

The defeat of the Reds in trying to enjoin Armando Marsans, the Cuban player, from playing with the St. Louis Reds, paves the way for the third league moguls to get other players from foreign organized baseball by the same route.

Either the pitching in the Three-I league is sensational, or the other leagues have copied off at the bats. Only five men in the league are hitting .300 or better. Charles Jackson, Bloomington outfielder, is leading the league and boasts of a .355 average.

Seattle's seeing some of the best hurling in the west these days. Walter Hays, by winning twelve straight games, set a new Northwestern league record. Bill Rose, one of his teammates, then started after Hays' record and on eleven in a row before being stopped.

Waco, Tex., fans are going to reward the managers and players on the club now leading the Texas league by staging a big day in their honor. The whole crew will be given presents and the receipts for the day are to be split up among the players. Some class to 'em!

Nothing like an early start. At the very beginning of the season, it will be remembered, Philadelphia won nine games in a row. If those nine games were deducted from the standing of Moran's men where would the Quakers be today?

Hey, you much derided left-hand golfers, what do you think of this? The Midlothian club of Chicago is going to hold a knockout tournament for the left-handed championship of the west before long, and the Midlothian wants you to be there to fight for your rights, even if you do lose your left. There will be a thirty-six holes, the low gross prize being a gold medal. Low net and choice scores also will be rewarded. Southpaws who are members of clubs affiliated with the U. S. C. A. or Western association are eligible.

JANESVILLE RED SOX DOWN WILLOWDALE TEAM 12 TO 2

Pitcher Kakuske threw his team to victory yesterday, when the Red Sox downed the hard hitting Willowdale team 12 to 2. The young slab artist struck out eighteen men in the course of the struggle, and the hard hitting of Dopp and Miller helped pile up the tallies. A large crowd witnessed the game. Pitcher Eastman for Willowdale pitched a steady game, but blew up several times. He struck out eight men.

The Red Sox will play the Beloit Colored Giants next Sunday at Beloit.

Johnny Griffiths will be getting plenty of battles in New York in the next few months. He made good with a vengeance Thursday night on Ebbets ballfield in Brooklyn when he gave Leach Cross a racing start to finish in ten rounds. Every New York paper gave Griffith the decision by a wide margin. It was his Gotham debut and promoters there now figure him a big drawing card.

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN STATE GAME LAWS

One Buck Bill Is More Important Enactment Affecting Hunters.—Is Game Pamphlets Shortly.

Although the changes in the game laws which have been adopted at this session of the legislature have not been very numerous, they have been decidedly important. Hunters have been writing in to the legislature asking what the changes are. As a result, it is likely that very soon after the legislature adjourns the new conservation department will get out a pamphlet in which the changes in the game laws will be explained. The most important changes in the hunting laws is, of course, the one-buck bill. Under terms of this law both residents and non-resident hunters are limited in the number of deer which they can shoot to a single buck a season. The killing of doe is absolutely prohibited, and the shipment of deer must be made in such a way that game wardens examining the shipments can be positive that it was a buck and not a doe that was killed.

There was a great fight over this one-buck law, and although it was disposed of early in the session, the battle over the measure was so bitter that it caused many disagreements in both houses. The fight in the assembly was more acrid than in the senate but there was a very lively battle over the measure in both houses and there were times when it looked likely that the measure came from people who, it is said, did not understand the situation, and residents of northern Wisconsin, who generally favored the bill, declared that even the single-buck measure might not prove sufficient to prevent the slaughter of deer from being so great as to seriously exterminate them in Wisconsin. In fact, there were many members of the legislature from counties in northern Wisconsin who were very strong advocates of a closed season for deer, and there were petitions presented to the legislature from several northern Wisconsin counties which asked for legislation providing for a closed season for deer, some having been desired in a closed season for deer for so long a period as five years.

Another very interesting bill which was passed in regard to the hunting of deer was a measure which provides for a state deer reserve or shelter in three townships of Forest county. It is made absolutely unlawful to shoot deer within the limits of these townships at any time, and the bill is of more than ordinary interest for the reason, as it is claimed, that the townships which have been selected for the proposed deer reserve are the best deer hunting grounds in Forest county.

There were numerous other bills introduced on the subject of deer hunting, but the ones mentioned were the only important measures to become laws. Assemblyman Everett, who was the chairman of the fish and game committee in the legislature, was much opposed to the shelving of the legislation for a closed season for deer for a definite period. A majority of the assemblymen, however, thought that this would be an unwise policy at this time.

A closed season bill, however, will undoubtedly be drafted for presentation to the next legislature.

It is also claimed that the question of a closed season for deer will be quite an issue in several northern Wisconsin counties during the next legislative campaign.

GEMANY SOLVENT.

One of the great problems that the European war presents to the general public is that of whether the various nations will be able to meet their immense obligations after the struggle ceases. Millions upon millions of dollars have been expended in the United States for supplies of various sorts and more will follow as the war progresses. Thus far there has been no lack of funds to pay for them but the question arises in the minds of economists what will be the ultimate outcome when peace is declared.

In the respect that the belligerent nations are upon a flat basis, it might be said that they are in a measure embarrassed now, if it were not the bankruptcy has different degrees of intensity, and that the world itself, used in such a sense, is to some extent a question-begging epithet.

But Germany today enjoys a solvency different from that of the other nations at war, even if her condition tends to destroy itself. Economically it is no bad thing that the loss of sea power makes it largely impracticable to contract debts for raw materials bought abroad; and certainly it is a favorable aspect of the German situation that her national indebtedness is all to her own people.

If the war could be terminated today, this would place Germany in a not unfavorable position for the partial regeneration of her world. After the Seven Years' War, when Prussia emerged victorious, the ruined capital, occupied once and again by the enemy, the country laid waste, the thickest confines in the course of the long struggle, had yet in them the seeds of new growth for Germany had contracted no debt.

It is living off her own resources now. The real exchange value of the mark, as long as she can do so, is a matter of merely secondary consequence. Apart from the holdings of gold of the Reich bank, the country is flooded with paper currency, issued by the banks, and made public secured by corporations and municipal bonds, mortgages and what not, which is absolutely unsaleable on an open market to liquidate such currency.

But so long as this token is paid and accepted through-out, so long as the seller of the goods knows that what he will buy a pair of socks, an automobile, a suit of clothes, an article to fight on the sea.

A manufacture, for export, apart from the bare necessities of her people, all she manufactures is destined to be immediately dissipated in smoke. It is not a productive creation of wealth. What the manufactures in peace is exchanged for raw material, with steady growth in the margin of wealth and in the employment of industry. But what the manufactures of the extravagant uses of war represents a steady depletion of the accumulated wealth of the people, leading to one inevitable result according to the duration of the war.

The matter of present insolvency is an academic question. But ultimate insolvency, with anything short of the successful conquest of the one belligerent capable of using industry, must necessarily leave Germany like a sucked egg shell, where collapse will be final and disastrous. The world has never seen anything like it.

"I believe that the free discussion of public questions of the people is not only a constitutional right that should not be abridged by a statute of this kind, but it should be the policy of the state to encourage that the affairs of our government be better understood by the people and that the will of the people may have a greater influence upon those whom they have chosen to represent them in government."

"Wisconsin has been provided with a mass of election laws which are the reverse of blessings, and the practical effect of which is directly contrary to that which was claimed to be held in view by those who drafted them and championed them before the people. The result of these enactments is witnessed in the growing disgust of the people with politics and the growing proportion of qualified voters who take no part in elections."

"Sooner or later some of these too restrictive laws will be very radically amended or swept away. In the meantime Governor Philipp is wise in refusing to add to their number."

ANTICIPATE FROST IN LOWER REGIONS

Report from United States Weather Bureau Comes as Warning to Tobacco Growers.—Say Expert Frost Tonight.

An official report from the weather bureau of Chicago was received here today, saying that light frosts are expected tonight in the low regions in this vicinity. It came as a special warning to the tobacco growers and dealers of the county, who should be taking steps to protect the crop. The report says that a frost is liable to prove fatal to many fields of plants, although most of the tobacco in this part of the county is nearly past the stage where frost could do considerable harm.

DUDLEY ARSON CASE DRAWS BIG GALLERY

MUNICIPAL COURT FILLED WITH CROWDS TODAY DURING CONTINUANCE OF DOCTOR'S EXAMINATION.

QUASH DISMISSAL PLEA

Judge Maxfield Rules Down Overture of Defendant's Attorney—State Fire Marshal on Stand.

At two o'clock this afternoon Attorney Maxfield, who had been in attendance at the preliminary examination of Dr. H. H. Dudley, charged yesterday with the murder of William Enders, opened up their spirited arguments over the motion of the defense to discharge the defendant on the grounds that the state had not shown sufficient evidence that the offense was guilty of a commission of the offense he is charged with by William Enders, after Attorney Maxfield, assisted by Louis Avery, brought out the defense's side of the case, a recess was granted for the arguments. Both in the morning and afternoon every seat in the court room with exception of showing the interest being taken in the case.

When court was opened at ten o'clock, Attorney Maxfield recalled Deputy Fire Marshal William Enders, and the state agent told of finding a gasolene can, found at the Dudley residence, to three gasolene cans and several at stores, to prove that the cap was attached to the gasolene can. At this point the state rested and the defense took up the task of proving that Dr. Dudley was at Kenosha, Wisconsin, at the time of the fire and remained there until the fire broke out. Witnesses had been secured from Kenosha and the physician's actions while in Kenosha were carefully traced. At this point Attorney Jeffries offered a formal motion to dismiss the case and the petition was denied by the court.

Kenosha Men Testify.

The defense called Philip Harmon, Jr., and H. C. Snyder, employed at the Jeffries automobile garage, who testified that Dr. Dudley applied to have the repairs made on his machine. Both reported seeing Dr. Dudley on Thursday and Friday at the garage. Dr. Dudley was seen at the signature in the register book. Miss Oleta Richter, clerk at the Kenosha hotel, testified that the Janesville physician had stayed at the hotel Friday night, and W. A. Russell and R. W. Towle testified that the machine of Dr. Dudley had been left all night at the Russell garage. The testimony was all introduced for the purpose of establishing an alibi and making it impossible for Dr. Dudley to have fired his home, as alleged, and be at Kenosha at the same time. The time element promises to be of paramount importance in the trial together with how long a candle burned on top of a barrel would take to reach inflammable material within the barrel.

It appears that both sides have not put in all their evidence in the examination, the state aiming to introduce enough for the court to hold Dr. Dudley tried.

More testimony was taken this afternoon by the defense. The most startling evidence was given by Mrs. Richard R. Jones, who resides directly across from the Dudley residence on South Main street. In telling her story, she reported that she was awakened the morning of the fire between the hours of two and three, by the breaking of glass. She was unable to state where the noise came from, and the state attorney stated that this could occur on the street pavement.

John Foss of Delavan testified that Dr. Dudley stopped at his garage in Delavan on Friday night, and on his way home from Kenosha, to purchase gasolene for his machine.

Mrs. Del Heath took the stand late in the afternoon and was cross-examined by Attorney Maxfield. She testified that trunks were removed from the home before the fire, but so far, no one on the defense has admitted this.

Yesterday's Proceedings.

At four o'clock yesterday afternoon the state rested their case after the examination of four witnesses and considerable legal wrangling between the attorneys. Attorney Maxfield offered evidence by Attorney Pierce. At the conclusion of the testimony Mr. Jeffries attempted to convince Deputy Fire Marshal William Enders that he was wrong in regard to a small gas cap, which the state official testified was a cap to the spout of a gasolene can. Mr. Jeffries attempted to ridicule this statement and ventured the opinion that the cap came off the gasolene bottle and that the evidence was "somewhat" of a frame-up. In fact the defending attorney was so insistent that such was the case that he wanted Enders to bear the burden of proof. The result of this important investigation, it is said from reports, for the result was not taken as evidence, was that the fire marshal fitted the cap to the gasolene can in question and the bearings of the cap did not come within a mile of being the necessary addition to the gasolene bottle as claimed by the defense. The fire marshal testified that he had found the cap on the gasolene can at the Dudley residence and that the scarf was thoroughly saturated with a liquid alleged to be very inflammable. It was pointed out that the cap on this cap was placed on the scarf before the fire was started, for the cloth was coated with smoke.

Dr. Dudley Evidence.

Attorney Maxfield offered testimony that was taken when Dr. Dudley gave his behind closed-door examination, the most important of which is that Dr. Dudley had no reason to believe that any one should have seen him on fire and that he had received no threats from any person. Dr. Dudley had testified that on his return from Kenosha Friday night—the same day the fire—he did not go into his residence.

Miss Lillian Dudley, granddaughter of the defendant, was called to the stand and her testimony may have an important bearing on the case. She testified that from the window of the Lewis Knitting company, where she was working, she could obtain a view of South Main street, and that she saw Dr. Dudley sometime between Thursday and Friday. She was uncertain which day or could not place the exact time. The girl also spoke of finding the vessels containing the gasolene in the home soon after the fire. At that time she did not know where her grandfather was.

Royal Malpress, a state inspector, testified on the testing of the gasolene that was found in the fruit jars found in the first floor, and that in the wash boiler and milk can, was a liquid which was the same as the gasolene of a low grade and appeared to be mixed with lubricating oil. When asked what effect this would have on gasolene, the witness said it would cause a more intense and longer fire.

Chief of Police P. D. Champion told of the investigation made at the house the day after the fire, and the finding of the holes chopped in three parts of the house to make what the state alleged would be a perfect draft for the fire from the basement to the attic. Champion testified that there were eighteen fruit jars filled with a liquid found in the stairway closet.

William Enders testified that he found on making an investigation at the house the afternoon of the day of the fire, that the state continued to bring out the importance of the holes that had been found in the ceiling and the removal of the tread of the stairway. Attorney Pierce questioned about the holes and debris around the holes and Enders testified that a few days after the fire he found a bushel barrel of plaster in the cellar in the room near where the fire started, which corroborated the fact that which had been taken from the holes in the implicated physician's bedroom.

Find Crowbars.

The finding of two crowbars and one pinhead in the house was told and how one of the crowbars had been used of recent use. Then the state introduced two candles found in the house, and by these the prosecution hoped to prove that the fire was caused by someone setting a candle. One of these candles was marked off in spaces, and a half, and as if some one had tried to test the burning ability of the candle with regards to time.

Attorney Pierce ended the day's proceedings by showing that the taxes on the Dudley property had been paid for two years. Orville Morse testified that Dr. Dudley carried two five thousand dollar fire insurance policies on the property, and was shown that the contents of the place as estimated by the witness to be eight and nine thousand dollars, but the cost of such a house would be around fifteen thousand dollars.

FAMILY SORROWS FOR YOUNG GIRL CALLED BY DEATH

Valiant Fight Against Dread Plague Proves Fruitless for Girl and Hard-Working Stepmother.

Ledema Barknecht died yesterday afternoon at the little home on Barker street. The cause of death was tuberculosis. The family circle which toiled so faithfully on the little garden tract to give their daughter and sister, an existence to themselves. It was hard, wrestling subsistence from the soil and at times the mother was compelled to solicit aid from her county. Never, however, when the income of the garden warranted food and a mean existence for the family.

But nearly a year's sickness piled up doctor bills. The frail nineteen year old daughter was consumptive. She needed the best of care and attention and most of all a mother's love, and her stepmother gave all to every extent. She attended her as her own.

Slowly during the past several months the little girl grew weaker. The ruddy cheeks faded and she grew thin and haggard. Suggestions that the girl be taken to the state's tuberculosis sanatorium at the hospital in Madison, Wis., were made. The mother would not permit her to go. Yesterday death came and found the girl patient and waiting.

The frail nineteen year old daughter was born at Lake Mills, March 24, 1896. Her mother passed away years ago and her father died in 1871. She had been married to Ledema Barknecht, who died in early life. Two years ago the family came to Janesville and engaged in small truck gardening. The father's death the second mother to his children plodded along with patient care to relieve their poverty status and to administer to the sickly daughter.

Aside from the stepmother, Mrs. Louise Barknecht, the girl is mourned by six sisters, three of her own blood and three step-sisters. They are: Charles, a son of the late Mr. River and Lenora and Harla Barknecht of this city, and Mable, Ruth and Hazel, the step sisters, of Janesville. The girl was a devoted daughter at home with the family, and a stepbrother, Victor. Another stepbrother, Leonard, is on his uncle's farm near Lake Mills.

The funeral will be held Thursday morning at the home, 1229 Ruger avenue, and will be private. The remains will be taken to Lake Mills to rest beside those of her father.

GOVERNORS ATTEND CONVENTION WHICH OPENS AT BOSTON

Thirty States Represented at Governors' Conference Opening for Four Day Session.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Boston, Aug. 24.—Governors and former governors representing more than thirty states were here today to attend the opening of the Governors' Conference, which is to be a session for four days. Besides the regular meetings, at which papers upon vital topics will be read and discussed, elaborate plans have been made to entertain the visitors and to give them a comprehensive view of the resources of New England.

Proposed amendments to the constitution of the United States will be one of the matters to be considered. On the closing day of the conference Secretary of War Garrison will deliver an address and Governor Fielder of New Jersey will read a paper on "The State's Duty in the Matter of National Defense." Secretary of the Navy Daniel Ingham sent a part of the Atlantic fleet to Boston for the occasion. The Governors and will himself be present. Governor Walsh has arranged a mobilization of the state militia for the third day of the Conference.

Among the papers to be read are the following: "Possibilities of the Governors' Conference," former Governor Emmet O'Neal of Alabama; "National Control of Water Power Sites," Governor George W. Carlson of Colorado; "The Executive Budget," Governor R. L. Williams of Ohio; "The Duty and Responsibility of the Governor," Governor H. C. Stuart of Virginia; and "Conservation of Man and of Natural Resources," former Governor John A. Dix of New York.

A public reception will be tendered the governors at the State House to-night. A steamer trip along the coast of Massachusetts Bay and automobile drives through the scenic spots of the North Shore and to Concord and Lexington are included in the program of entertainment.

The Governors have been invited to attend the conference of the Society for the Promotion of Training for Public Service, which is purposely arranged for the same dates as the gathering of executives.

This is the eighth annual meeting of governors. The first was held in Washington in 1908, upon invitation of President Roosevelt, to consider the feasibility of uniform state action for the conservation of natural resources. As a result of that gathering the Governors' Conference was made a permanent organization, and has met annually in different states. This year Governor Walsh is chairman.

Those who have accepted the invitation to this year's Conference are: Governors George A. Carlson of Colorado; Marcus H. Holcomb of Colorado; Charles H. Miller of Delaware; Moses Alexander of Idaho; E. W. Dunn of Illinois; Oakley C. Curtis of Maine; W. S. Hammond of Minnesota; Elliott H. Major of Missouri; V. Stewart of Montana; Robert H. Spaulding of New Hampshire; James F. Peffer of New Jersey; Charles S. Whitman of New York; L. B. Hanna of North Dakota; Frank Willis of Ohio; R. L. Williams of Oklahoma; Richard I. FAIL TO FIX IDENTITY OF LEO FRANK'S LYNCHERS and I had driven my horse into a creek to water him when three or four automobiles went by. We were forty or fifty yards off the road. Bob Cochran said to me: 'I wonder what that crowd of fellows is doing? A bunch of joyriders.'

Inquest Convened at Ten.

Marietta, Ga., Aug. 24.—Prior to the resumption here today of his inquiry into the lynching of Leo M. Frank, a week ago, comparatively little was known of the plans of coroner John Booth.

The jury of inquest was impaneled just after Frank's body was removed from the oak tree near the Wm. Frey cotton gin house.

At that time members of the jury heard the statements as to identity of the dead man and then adjourned until today so the inquest might proceed in a calmer atmosphere and to permit the coroner to collect evidence.

A special counsel for the coroner was provided by the county commissioners. Coroner Booth had set ten o'clock as the hour for the jury to meet today, an undertaking which was a disappointment. Just how many witnesses were to be heard had not been announced, but the general impression for several days had been, they would be few. Several persons, however, to have seen the lynching party on the road near Marietta, were expected to tell what they knew, but the identity of the party and the identity of any of the participants in the affair has all along been regarded as distinctly remote.

Some members of the coroner's jury were heard today, but they gave no doubt that they could reach at this time any other conclusion than that Frank came to his death at the hands of "parties unknown." The lynching party actually was called to the attention of the Cobb county grand jury on September 15.

WOMAN'S PAGE

RUTH CAMERON

TIED TO THE MEAL HOUR.

"But if we did that," objected the author's wife, "we'd be late to dinner."
"Oh, hang it," said the author, "What if we are? You don't mean, Marion, you'd give up a lark like that because we might be half an hour late for dinner?"
"It wouldn't be half an hour. It would be nearer an hour and a half. But you don't care. Hang on time to meals means absolutely nothing to you," said the author's wife indignantly.

"And everything in the world to you," retorted the author.
"I think we could be back on time," put in the motorist hopefully. "That's a good road. We ought to be able to make the run in two hours each way."

"No, you don't," said the author, holding up a warning hand. "Thank you just the same, of course."
"You don't mean to say you mind a little speed?" questioned the motorist. "What's the matter, Jack. That's the first time I ever saw you show the white feather on a question of speed."

"Willing To Speed, But Not Be Speeded."
"You don't see it now," said the author, "I like speeding as well as you do but what I don't like is being speeded. It takes all the pleasure out of anything to me to be tied up to a clock."

Eventually the author and his wife compromised on dinner in town and the motorist was left to his own devices. The author's wife said to her feminine neighbor, "Aren't men perfectly impossible about meal hours?" To which the feminine neighbor gave an enthusiastic and sympathetic agreement.

Both Are Wrong And Both Are Right.
For myself, my sympathies are not all with the author, nor yet with his wife.

You see, I know both kinds of people, the woman who moulds her whole life (and tries to mould her family's) on meal hours and the man who doesn't care whether he is over on time to a meal or not.

And I don't think either class has the right of the matter. Take the man first. Very likely he never cooked a meal and he doesn't know how difficult it is to get a meal ready for a certain time and then eat it hot and good for an hour or so. Or he doesn't realize that there is a maid in the house, how uncomfortable she can make the mistress of the home feel when dinner is late and her working hours are prolonged.

The Happy Middle Course.
On the other hand, the woman who lives herself and her family hand and foot to a meal schedule and tries to make them shape their work and pleasures to that rigid procrustean measure, imposes a lot of unnecessary unhappiness on everyone. A little elasticity, a little reasonableness would make everybody much happier. Suppose the meal wasn't quite so hot or so good, she could explain to the tardy folk that the price they were paying for the meal was a little high, why not give her an extra hour or somewhere else, and if she has some special reason for wanting to get away on time why not send her along and let the tardy folks clear off their own meal?

There is a happy medium in all things and this matter is no exception.

Household Hints

CAKES.

Cake icing—in making icing with powdered sugar it is much better to use a little hot water instead of milk for mixing. This warm weather the milk soon sours and spoils the frosting of cakes. By this method you can use a cake in a little while as you do not have to cook it at all, and there is no danger of its spoiling.

A Good Fruit Cake—One pound butter, one pound sugar, twelve eggs, one pound currants, one pound raisins, one-half pound mixed peel, one pound flour, one-fourth pound almonds, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt and sugar to a dozen. Beat butter and sugar to a cream, add eggs one at a time until lightly beaten, stir in flour and baking powder lightly, then the fruit and almonds. Little cake tin with buttered paper, and put mixture in, bake in slow oven five or six hours until thoroughly cooked in center. This makes a fine Christmas cake.

THE TABLE.

Cauliflower Soup—Cook cauliflower in beer stock, saving the stock in which it has been cooked. Press through a fine sieve, rejecting all the stems and coarse pieces. To the puree of cauliflower add the stock, season and, just before sending to the table, add a pint of cream for each four people, whipping the cream and turning it into the soup just before it is served.

German Soup Balls—Roll eight crackers to a fine dust, add one tablespoon finely chopped parsley, one tablespoon flour and a grating of nutmeg. Add one beaten egg and six tablespoons soup stock. Mold into small balls. Cook in hot soup five minutes and serve.

Jellied Bouillon—For jellied soups use well made bouillon or chicken consommé. Add just enough gelatin to make it set slightly. Place in cracked ice till needed. Serve in bouillon.

Baked Stuffed Fish—One-half cup bread crumbs, one-fourth cup melted butter, one-half cup chopped crumbs, one-half small onion chopped fine, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon finely chopped parsley, two tablespoons chopped pickle. Bind together with hot water. Stuff a large whitefish, put strips of bacon on it. Bake one-half hour. Serve with egg sauce. Egg Sauce: One tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, make smooth in sauce pan, then add one-fourth cup milk, one pint milk; cook until quite thick, then add a chopped hard boiled egg and parsley.

Salmon Patties—Take six or eight large tomatoes (ripe), three large green peppers and one large onion. Plunge tomatoes in boiling water to remove skins, then cut up in fine pieces; add peppers and onion, chopped fine (remove seeds from peppers). Add salt to taste and generous pinch cayenne pepper; then add one cup water. Let all boil until peppers are dark green. This is delicious as meat sauce.

Green Tomato Pie—Wash, pare and slice five or six green tomatoes and put them in a pie crust. Add half cup vinegar and one cup sugar. Scatter over bits of butter, sprinkle with flour and a little allspice, put on top crust and bake in moderate oven. Peach Dainty—Boil one cup rice until tender. Drain well and allow to cool. Boil half pound granulated sugar with half cup water until it spins a thread. Peel about eight peaches, split in halves, remove the stones and fill cavity full of cocoanut. Arrange the rice on a platter to about two inches thick, spread out nice and smooth; dip the peaches in the syrup and place on the rice, cavity side up, making it look like a mound; continue until all the peaches are used. Now take your syrup and add enough cocoanut to form into small balls, arrange these in between peaches and rice, sprinkle with powdered sugar, and serve with plain or whipped cream or a custard sauce. These make a delicious dessert.

"Mamma's Sweet Apples"—Wash, pare and score round sweet apples. Lay in preserve kettle and cover with water. To one dozen apples add half cup sugar. When apples are tender, remove from kettle and lay on a platter, peel side down. Cook liquor in kettle until a rich syrup. Pour this over apples. Sprinkle with granulated sugar, also nutmeg and cinnamon if desired. These are to be served cold and make a delicious luncheon or supper dish.

communal school, held in the building of the national school of Arts and Crafts, proposed that in every school in France the teachers should have the pupils repeat, at the opening of every day's classes, the old-fashioned prayer, a formula which might be looked upon as an act of faith and patriotic hope—everywhere the same. "Someone among our writers," he said, "could conceive a brief text which by being adopted by the government could become official."

"This simple formula should embody two cardinal ideas—the first should be for use until the final freeing of the invaded regions of France, and the second could remain unchanged, even after the war."

The children of France, first of all, would turn their quickened memories and the ardent expression of their sense of brotherhood towards those Frenchmen who live in the territory occupied by the enemy, and who by their courage, their dignity, their suffering—often their martyrdom, keep the soul of France safe from any invasion, Mornar and even the dearest wishes of the children of France would fly to them as witnesses that the free portions of the nation suffer in equal measure of their servitude, and that there is not one Frenchman who is not ready to make every sacrifice for their deliverance as soon as possible, whence indeed depends the safety of the Fatherland.

"The second idea would be to send in some form a pious salutation to the dead whose blood has impregnated victory and whose heroic bodies, united at last in the glorious sepulture of the fields of France, form along the whole front the guard of honor of France. The children of France would swear to exalt in their hearts never to forget their sublime example."

"Thus by the daily repetition of two simple, necessary ideas, the reason, the sentiment and the conscience of all the children of France could be raised to the moral level of our wonderful soldiers, who every day are fighting and dying for the triumph of France and of civilization."

Folks at Home:

For the leader who suddenly raided the camp of the the and put them to flight. belongs the prize for the victor.

I have just returned from the meeting of the stockholders of the Oil Development company at Kansas City, and you will rejoice that the oily manager so lucratively himself that he slipped him out of office.

The new incumbent seems honest, and all stockholders are to have the privilege of looking at the books at any time.

I stopped off on my way back, and the oil is producing a good flow of oil, as glad I had hoped of it, and I had window and offered my shares.

I was minded to do the same from the city together, and my settlement was so high, it was a big change of them next year.

"Nothing will pay better than wheat with prices what they are now," announced the thrifty housewife.

"Yes, but it's better to have your eggs in more than one basket." He brought the front legs of the chair to the floor and placing his hands on his knees slowly rose. Going over to the telephone, he called up his neighbors and after another to suit with them on the best proposition, with the result that at the end of the week a car was ready to be shipped to Fairport.

"Well, that's a good letter," remarked Dick's father, who was sitting with his chair tipped back against the wall. "You don't know how relieved I am to know that there are honest people out there who are turning out all right in spite of my not consulting you about them. It was mighty good of you to pitch in and help save them."

The old lady pushed her glasses up on the top of her head and meditatively rubbed the side of her nose with her forefinger.

"I'm glad they struck oil," she said, "but believe I'll inquire among the neighbors and if we can make out a car load I'll ship them and go down and see the factory. We can find out then whether it will pay to put in a big acreage of them next year."

Heart and Home Problems

BY MRS. ELEANOR THOMPSON

May Be Addressed To Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette.

Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl and I have been going for three years my senior for about four weeks.

He is a very fine boy and cares a great deal for me. I am sure, but I am rather fickle, and although I think I care for him now, I cannot be sure that my love will last.

The trouble is that I am almost sure that I am almost sure my love will last. Do you think it is wrong to let him know that I am not sure?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will sage tea darken the hair? (2) My hair is all different shades and I would like to know how to apply it. (3) How is sage tea sold at the druggists?

A DAILY SUBSCRIBER.
(1) Yes, but orris root boiled with it will darken it more.

(2) I wouldn't use it if I were you. No hair except dyed hair, as a rule, is an exact shade. Sage tea is usually used by people whose hair is turning gray, and then it is rubbed into the scalp and applied to the hair itself.

(3) In packages costing five cents.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man twenty-two years old. For over a year I have gone with a girl. A little younger than myself. We were the best friends imaginable before I went away on a vacation, but now something strange has come up and I know very little about her. I wrote her a letter, and then I wrote her another. The second one she did not answer and she has had three weeks to do so in. I am home now and I have learned that she has some away and a friend of mine gave me her address. Do you think it would be out of place for me to write to her?

JOHN.
While if you want to. There is no reason why you shouldn't. Getting ready for vacations and vacations make very busy times and probably the girl had no chance to write to you. I wouldn't worry about the matter, if I were you.

WEST REVIEWS TRIP TO FARMS ON FRIDAY

IMPORTANT POINTS IN FARM MANAGEMENT ARE BROUGHT OUT BY MEMBERS OF PARTY.

EIGHTY MILES COVERED

Rock County People Are Most Enthusiastic. Is Statement Made by Member of Party.—Farm Features.

Bright and early on the morning after the reception at the Country Club of Beloit, the people on the farm management tour started on their third day's trip. Farms in the vicinity of Beloit, Clinton, Janesville and Milton Junction were on the day's program, necessitating an early start. The entire day was devoted to Rock county and a portion of the previous day had been given to Rock county also. The party visiting the farms of F. B. Ruesler & Son and E. L. Ruesler on Thursday afternoon. In all there were fourteen Rock county farms on the program, four of them having won prizes in the state contest. One of them winning two prizes making in all five prizes for Rock county. Twenty-five autos made the trip, the distance covered being about eighty miles.

The first farm visited was that of Charles Lathers, who won the first prize in the county last year. This farm is about three miles northeast of Beloit on the Shoppers road. Mr. Lathers has a 235-acre farm, the principal business of this farm being the production of city milk, which is marketed in bulk in Beloit, about 75 per cent. of his total receipts being from live stock products. His herd consists of forty-two Holstein cows, which are milked by machine. He is practicing a four-year clover rotation, and last year not having corn enough for silage used clover quite successfully. He keeps Hampshire hogs and pastures them on oats and rape. His average profits on each sow were $246 this past year, each having two litters during the year.

The farm home is a pleasant one, back from the road, affording a roomy lawn, and has a comfortable screened porch. The work inside is lightened by a cylindrical washing machine and running water, and the house made comfortable with a furnace.

The next farm visited was that of Smith and Wanstion, "Plainview," in the town of Turtle.

Here was illustrated the possibilities of a small farm, this being only forty-eight acres. Here was a new house with modern appointments, the grounds being beautified with well set shrubbery. One of the unique things about this home was the gleaming porch opening off of all the rooms on the second floor. A considerable much appreciated by the ladies of the party was the mirror set in the door of the wardrobe closet, opening off the front hall. The farm is a dairy farm.

The Douglas Guernsey farm was the next farm visited. This farm of 176 acres furnished sanitary milk in bottles to Beloit, requiring a large amount of help, which is boarded in the home. The management of this help is on the Golden Rule plan, and the quality is excellent. The wife is not only paid for boarding the men, but is furnished with extra conveniences, a successful dishwashing machine and a power washer being installed here. This farm was distinguished by a round barn. A plan of the farm was shown and the effect of lining the soil was seen in the crop of alfalfa. The importance of rock phosphate was also demonstrated in a field which refused to grow corn until this was applied to the soil. The Douglas farm has only been in operation about ten years and has met and solved several problems, among them were an attack of the army worm which threatened crops last year. The army worms were buried in a trench which was dug about the field to protect the crop and the grain saved.

Forest View Stock Farm.

The farm of W. T. Moore, Forest View Stock farm, on the State line road, nearly south of Clinton, was the next one on the program. There were 192 acres in diversified farming with pure bred seed, making 16 per cent of the profits, the crops 37 per cent., the live stock 35 per cent., and 13 per cent. in live stock products.

Here is a Percheron stallion owned by Mr. Moore and his neighbor, Mr. E. L. Benedict. Mr. Moore owns five brood mares.

The Otter Creek farm of 200 acres, owned by E. L. Benedict and son, was the next stop. This farm won two state prizes. Thirty pure bred Holstein cows are kept, one cow being shown that won first place in a ten-cow contest for butter fat at Beloit fair. The cows on this farm are made comfortable by a cork brick floor in the barn. This farm raises pure bred seed for use and for sale and does market gardening in summer and fall products. The crops furnish 39 per cent. of the net income, the live stock 27 per cent., and live stock products about 24 per cent., the rest being miscellaneous.

In order to keep up the fertility of the farm when selling grain and garden products, Mr. Benedict buys some seeds such as oil seeds and corn seed meal. He makes use of the stallion which he owns with Mr. Moore by keeping brood mares and raising pure bred colts. He also shows cattle, hogs and bogs at the fairs.

Mr. Benedict has ten acres of alfalfa.

From the Otter Creek farm, the party went to Argaborn, the home of J. Z. McLeay, the importer and breeder of Clydesdale horses. Here the party was shown an imported horse, which weighed about a ton, a horse that was nearly perfect. This horse has been shown at national shows and several state fairs and has never been beaten.

Aside from the horses the party was shown a fine herd of short horn cattle, being raised for beef.

The party took dinner at the Grand Hotel in Janesville, after which they visited Green Cove, the 200-acre farm of John L. Fisher. This farm lies west of Janesville, Willowdale.

Seven years ago this was a run down tobacco farm. Mr. Fisher bought it and proceeded to put it onto a permanent paying basis. He made the tobacco shed into a barn and built a silo and began to stock the farm with Holstein cattle and Duroc Jersey hogs. The herd now numbers eighty head with pure bred sires, one of which is the son of a sister of Pauline Wayne. Six pure bred heifers have been raised on the farm, two of which were sired by a bull whose dam produced thirty-three pounds of butter in seven days.

A litter of ten pigs were shown, averaging in weight 151 pounds. They won the prize at the recent fair and were the set of a sow which had raised twenty-eight pigs in eighteen months.

A bunch of high class sows were brought out for inspection and with them and the fine cattle Mr. Fisher has been able to increase the fertility of his farm.

Mr. Fisher raises alfalfa and cooks it for his hogs and uses rape for pasture. The hogs have access to a supply of soft water and salt.

From Willowdale, the party drove past the county farm to the home of E. P. Coon, one mile south of Milton Junction. This farm has 214 acres with a good crop of alfalfa.

Pure bred Percheron bred mares are kept, which were brought out for the inspection of the party, together with some fine colts, and some 200 Plymouth Rock chickens. This farm had suffered reverses, a fire sweeping away the home one year and a cyclone taking the farm buildings on the following year. A new comfortable farm house has been built, and though a furnace and water system has not been installed in the house, provision has been made for them in the building, so that when they are put in the necessary pipes are in place.

The last farm visited was that of Mr. Kammer, who is making good on the farm and is feeding only alfalfa and corn silage.

He has a pure bred Guernsey sire from the herd of ex-Gov. Hoard. He uses the King system of ventilation and keeps his cows in the yard, making use of alfalfa as a soiling crop as well as for hay. He manages to have his cows freshen in fall.

At five o'clock the party took the train for Waukesha, spending the last day of their trip in Waukesha county.

One of the committee who had met the entire trip and had visited all the counties represented in the contest is responsible for the statement that the people of Rock county turned out in the largest numbers for the trip and are the most enthusiastic of any of the counties of the state.

THURSDAY IS FIELD DAY AT FULTON; ALL ARRANGEMENTS MADE

Frank Sayre's Grove To Be Scene Of Big Get-Together Picnic—Janesville Public Is Invited.

Another of the community field days that have proved so popular with the population in the smaller villages throughout the county will be held on Thursday at Fulton, under the auspices of the county Y. M. C. A. and Social Center organization of that place.

Since the event held at Rock Prairie, big plans have been introduced in the various townships and it is expected many of these occasions will be enjoyed before cold weather.

The Fulton affair will take place in the Frank Sayre Grove. The program has been formulated, neighbors, including a ball game in the morning at 11 o'clock between the married men and their sons. At noon, a big basket dinner will be served.

In the afternoon, immediately following the repast, an indoor baseball series of games for the younger boys will be played, races and volley ball for the girls and women also being on the program. At two-thirty, the Milton and Fulton Y. M. C. A. nines will clash at baseball. This game will be a feature of the program, as both teams will be composed of star men.

The Janesville Commercial Club announces that Thursday at Fulton will be a big opportunity for the city people to get acquainted with country neighbors. Also, a good time can be had by attending this field day. An invitation is extended to the public of this city to attend the function if possible.

A fitting rally song for Fulton has been written and will be sung at the close of activities Thursday. It was written to the tune of "Marching Through Georgia."

The Fulton farmers claim they have a fine volley ball team, especially so since this last community field day was held at Rock Prairie. They challenge other rural teams and are going to challenge any teams from Janesville and Edgerton for games.

AUTOS ON FAIR TOUR IN CITY LAST NIGHT

Eighteen Machines Arrived Shortly
Before Six.—Bower City Band
Entertains.—Governor Is Absent.

Eighteen of the thirty automobiles, conveying the Milwaukee state fair visitors, arrived in this city, last evening shortly before six o'clock, making Janesville their night control, at the Myers and Grand hotels.

It was expected that Governor Philipp and Mayor Bading of Milwaukee would be here with the party, but neither were present, the former having business to attend to at Madison that prevented him from joining the party until the latter arrived at Madison tonight. He started the cars, however, Monday morning.

The machines in the majority arrived here before the heavy rains last night, while some cars were caught in the country. Dinner was served the guests at both hotels. The Bower City band entertained the party during the evening to concert in front of both hotels, the selections being highly received.

The machines left the city this morning at seven-thirty on their second day's tour, which takes in Waukesha, Whitewater, Watertown, Sun Prairie and Madison and many other smaller points.

CHILD IS DROWNED IN A VAT OF WHEY

Little Son of Jacob Waefers of Or-fordville Falls Into Vat in Creamery and Is Drowned.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Orfordville, Wis., August 23.—On Sunday evening, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Waefers met death in a shocking manner by being drowned in a vat of whey at the "Dirkey" cheese factory of which the father is the proprietor. No one saw the accident when it occurred. The child, about a year and a half old had been missed from the house but a few minutes and when search was made the mother was horrified to find it a little body at the bottom of the vat.

A physician was hastily summoned from Brodhead but its life was not extinct when found, all efforts at resuscitation were futile, owing doubtless in part to the nature of the liquid into which the child was submerged. The funeral was held on Tuesday, conducted by the pastor of the German Evangelical Church of Brodhead. The bereaved family received the sympathy of the entire community.

DESERT SCENES CHARM AUDIENCES

play Is Seen in "The Arab."

Never were such desert scenes depicted as were incorporated in the Paramount photoplay of "The Arab," which was presented at the Apollo yesterday by the Jesse L. Lasky company. Edgar Selwyn, who made such a success of this play on the stage was seen in his principal role. At times the spectator forgot all else in the beauty of the scenes and the splendor of the acting.

The story is not only very interesting and thrilling in itself, without being at all forced or exaggerated, but the picture is unusually well worked out. The details are taken care of with exact fidelity to truth, and one might well believe that the picture was taken in Syria, with real Turks and Armenians and Bedouins as the principal actors.

SWORD TAIL HELLER!
IN JENSEN AQUARIUM

Curious Tropical Fish With Sword
Like Tail and Highly Colored
Contained in Tank of J.
K. Jensen.

A curious fish, called the Mexican sword tail Helleri, found only in tropical waters and was one of which gave birth to from sixty to a hundred baby fish at the time, is contained in the aquarium of J. K. Jensen at his home, 827 Court street. They are a highly colored fish, about three inches in length with tail. The male species are the only ones to have the long sword like appendage, which is similar to a frail in the male. The female is a blue green color with a bright red streak running the full length. Its tail is about a quarter of an inch in breadth, blue green in color with two black streaks running the length of the tail.

One of the odd features of the fish is the fact that the female bear their young instead of laying eggs and hatching them as do most of the finny tribe. If not able to get food the mother will eat her young, as soon as they are born, and the meal is no small one when she consumes from sixty to a hundred of the little ones.

The aquarium of Mr. Jensen's which he has duplicated at his office in the Jackson block is one of the most complete in the state for tropical fish. It is balanced with elements by the use of seaweeds, insects and soil the plants giving off the life sustaining elements for the sustenance of the plants. The water is kept the same temperature that tropical waters are, naturally.

But more important—these flakes are made by a new process that gives them a new form and a distinctive flavour, entirely different from other corn flakes.

In this new process, intense heat expands the interior moisture, producing little pearl-like "puffs," a distinguishing characteristic of the New Post Toasties.

These flakes have a body and firmness that don't mush down, even when cream or milk is added. Toasties come factory-fresh, as crisp and delicious as when they leave the big ovens.

EMPLOYMENT OFFICE AIDS THE FARMERS

State Bureau of Employment to Have a Prominent Place in the Wisconsin State Fair.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., Aug. 24.—When Wisconsin is on parade at the state fair next month, the state's free employment offices will occupy a place in the procession. Farmers who attend the fair will find a booth devoted to a clear exhibition of the manner in which the state assists employers to obtain employees, and wage earners to get jobs.

The industrial commission, which runs the free employment offices for the state, has been making special efforts to solve the farm help problem. Hundreds of able-bodied men have been induced by the free employment offices to go to work on farms, while farmers have been encouraged to utilize the state's bureaus. Farmers have been quick to realize the benefits of these offices, and it is hoped that the exhibit at the state fair will open up to hundreds of agriculturalists the modern method of getting help.

Superintendent H. J. Beckerle of the Milwaukee free employment office, who has been instrumental in the farm help work, will have charge of the state fair exhibit.

Flour "Aged."
Bakers keep flour for about sixty days as a rule, allowing it to "age" before using. They sometimes point to this fact when bread loaves do not immediately increase in size in sympathy with a decline in the price of the miller's product.
